E. R. BAYLEY WANTS ALL GOSPEL TEAMS ORGANIZED. State President of Epworth League Talks on Co-operation at Methodist Church Saturday.

"I would like to see gospel teams organized every church in the Methodist Church. It is necessary to have a national organization to hand down information," said E. R. Bayley, state president of the Epworth League, in his talk on co-operation between district, state and national leagues before the Fayette District Epworth League Conference at the Broadway Methodist Church, Saturday afternoon. He said that it is necessary to have a certain cabinet to supervise and administer, but the rest is left to the district. In the past, there has been a lack of co-operation on the part of church officials. A great many times the pastor did not know that an Epworth League existed in his church.

Miss Ruth Rusk gave a short talk on the young people. "They are no better on Sunday than on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday," she said. Environment has a large effect on young people. There should be a development of the physical, spiritual, social and mental environment of the young. Social activities should be encouraged.

The survey of the forty-seven churches was given by E. H. Newcomb. At present thirteen leagues are organized. Several letters have been received from people asking for help in establishing leagues, while others said they are waiting until spring to organize. There are three times as many people in the territory as in the league.

Song service and inspirational service by H. M. Craig completed the program. The conference adjourned for an automobile tour of Columbia.

DR. MATZKE TALKS TO GIRLS. Bad Posture and Over-Eating Bring Evil Results.

Dr. Edith Matzke spoke to Christian College girls at the noon chapel meeting Saturday. She emphasized the need of correct posture. She spoke of the evils resulting from "the debutante slouch," which comes from bad posture. To illustrate her talk on posture, Doctor Matzke used one of the students as a model.

She mentioned the abuses to which women subject their feet, and suggested a new model sensible shoe. She also spoke of the evils of overeating and eating between meals.

HILL PRAISES GLEE CLUB

Alumni Recorder Says Organization Is Big Asset.

"A large number of the freshmen of the University are first interested in this institution because they heard the University Glee Club" in their home town says R. L. Hill, alumni recorder.

"The Glee Club gives a concert here in the auditorium of Jesse Hall tomorrow night. The alumni see the functions of the Glee Club as among the most important and vital for establishing the 'entente cordiale' between the University and the body of alumni over the state."

"The Club will soon leave for a tour and visit some nine or ten cities, rallying around its concerns the alumni, and through them, the prospective students in the University. The St. Louis alumni, for instance, are inviting free all seniors in the St. Louis high schools for the evening of March 16 in Moolah Temple. This effort betokens a fine spirit and will yield splendid results."

It is clear, then, that the Glee Club represents not one department or division of this University, but in fact, is representative of this whole institution. Every student in Columbia should get the spirit and show his appreciation of the effort made by the members of this worthy organization, and simply pack the auditorium from floor to ceiling tomorrow night.

Rev. Grainger Says British Are Seeking to Establish Indian Unity.

"The caste system is being broken down in formal practice if not in theory," said the Rev. O. J. Grainger at a dinner given for him by Delta Lambda at Harris' last night. He went on to say that this decay was due to purely physical improvements, such as public drinking fountains and trains that force the different castes to mingle, and is one point in the British effort to unify India.

India unity is not only the hope of the Indian nationalists, but the policy of the British, he said, and this unity
